

16. Preparing for your pup	298
16.1 Get your home and equipment ready	298
16.2 Manage the vaccinations clash (7–12 weeks)	300
16.3 Prepare your family and create your 8-week plan	303
17. Getting your pup home	306

PART F: WHAT TO DO, WHEN 310

18. The breeder	317
18.1 Prenatal: supporting the dam	318
18.2 0–2 weeks old: neonatal	318
18.3 2–3 weeks old: transition period	319
18.4 3–16 weeks old: formative period	320
18.4.1 3–4 weeks old: the emerging social being	320
18.4.2 5–7 weeks old: an expanding world	328
18.4.3 Supporting the new owners	341
19. The owner — your pup is coming home	343
19.1 8–12 weeks: joining the family and learning about this new world	343
19.1.1 8 weeks old: settle, introduce, bond	344
19.1.2 9 weeks old: bond, socialise, habituate	363
19.1.3 10–11 weeks old: socialisation, habituation, noise	368
19.1.4 12 weeks old: socialisation consolidation	373
19.2 13–16 weeks: bonus period of socialisation	379
19.2.1 13 weeks old: consolidating the foundations	379
19.2.2 14–15 weeks: consolidating and proofing	384
19.2.3 16 weeks old: graduation week!	387
19.3 4–6 months: juvenile stage	393
19.4 6–12 months: early puberty	402
19.5 12–18 months: late puberty	407
19.6 18–24 months: young adulthood	411
19.7 24 months onward: adulthood	412
20. Case study: Amber, the Irish Terrier	415

Final words — bringing together our hearts, heads and hands	424
Appendix A: Puppy temperament test	427
References	430
Acknowledgements	432

To Kim, my biggest cheerleader, advocate and muse, who can carve a story out of the wilderness. Together we birthed Dog Zen and Puppy Zen — thank you for mothering them into being.

I would also like to express my deep gratitude to my Zen Master and life-way teacher, Thich Nhat Hanh, who helped me find the ‘zen’ in Puppy Zen and taught me that ‘love is understanding’.

And finally, to Hercules, the most amazing, intelligent and deeply bonded dog I have had in my life, who taught me how dogs can love and just how intelligent they can be.

